Losing a spouse through death or because of a marriage break-up can be an earth-shattering experience. Like it or not, one experiences a period of personal “dying,” but hopefully, in time, a time of personal “rising”. No one understands dying and rising better than our Lord, Jesus Christ. In the Eucharist we relive the dying and rising of Jesus and join our suffering and rising to His.

Our diocese is in the midst of celebrating The Year of the Eucharist. This conference, Bread Broken But Multiplied, features Brother Loughlan Sofield, S.T., an internationally renowned retreat and group leader. His talks will weave together the Eucharistic experience with our journey through transition and loss and will also include a sensitive reflection on forgiveness. The Eucharistic journey invites us not only into the mystery of suffering but also into the peaceful, healing embrace of God. We are then sent forth to care for others, and in doing so, we continue our own healing.

Brother Loughlan is the Senior Editor of Human Development magazine, and the co-author and author of many books including Design for Wholeness and Facing Forgiveness. He has received worldwide recognition for his work with leaders of all ministries, including ministry to the divorced and the widowed. Known for his deep understanding of the human condition, he is able to bring people together and help them to come to a more hopeful understanding of their life's journey.
